

Use Case

From photos that create doubt to photos that build trust.

The client used AI-generated product photos he made himself. The problem? They looked AI, and crushed conversion. The challenge was simple: create ultra-realistic visuals that shoppers wouldn't question for a second.

So instead of inventing new images, I used the client's existing photos as the foundation and rebuilt them into photos that actually feel real.

